Oil Tank Search

Property Address: Yi Cheng & Jianmin Zou 15 Claremont Dr. Short Hills, NJ

Date: 4/8/2017

Polo & Associates was hired to perform an exterior oil tank search in the attempt to locate and mark any possible underground, conventional, intact, metal oil tanks. The search was requested and produced by and for the above party. The oil tank search was performed on the above date and location.

The inductive oil tank search consists of walking in a large traversed pattern up to 30 feet out from the foundation of the dwelling on all sides (or up to the perceived property lines). Search area was requested to be free of vehicles and obstructions prior to the inspection. The exterior of the dwelling was surveyed utilizing the newest and most advanced 2 box metal detector. This detector is specifically designed to locate large, magnetized objects such as oil tanks. Buried oil tanks are typically at least 3'X5'; buried between 4'-10' from the foundation and within 2 1/2' from the surface. Depending on the level of ground mineralization, size/condition of the tank, etc. the detector can potentially locate tanks of up to 20 feet deep. Highly magnetized minerals such as black sand, coal, magnetite, etc. may also trigger a reading. As always, there are limitations with any and every kind of inspection. Therefore, this is a non-destructive, non-disruptive/invasive search. Detection of a metal oil tank on this property may be compromised by: rebar/steel mesh that apparently exists within the front walk; being within 3' of mesh under chimney siding and above ground metallic objects such as fencing, condensing unit, etc.

There were no suspicious readings or oil tanks located but it is recommended that my client contact the town, seller, EPA and neighbors prior to their contractual obligation to inquire if ANY underground tanks ever existed on this property and to get full certification and soil samples for ANY tanks that have been removed or remediated.

Payment was rendered in full for the amount of $285.00.

Sincerely,

David JPolo
